

Masterclass

What is it?

A different and dynamic way to build high performing teams through principles of trust and collaboration. A highly talented improvisation team performs for your organisation and then makes insightful connections to teamwork, trust, and living values.

The masterclass reveals the sophisticated team and communication skills of improvisation (the craft of creating theatre without a script and dealing with the unexpected). We then demystify these skills allowing people to see what difference it can make for teams in an organisation context. The masterclass allows team members to perform and practice for a memorable learning experience.

It is an ideal blend of entertainment and education.

Who is it for?

Organisations, Business Units and Teams wanting to:

- Be high performing
- Live their values, rather than leaving them on the office wall
- Build trust and relationships
- Stimulate creativity and innovation

It is ideal for groups of up to 30. Adds energy and insight to any conference.

How is it run?

Creative Spark is an acting troupe of internationally regarded improvisers. They become the primary performers and teachers during the session. They showcase the principles of improvisation and invite members of the audience to perform and practice with them.

Importantly, we provide opportunity for discussion to ensure the links between impro principles and your workplace are explored. Finally, we focus on how to bring the principles to life in your organisation.

Why invest?

The key to this investment is its potential for mindset and attitudinal change. In a highly entertaining and energising way, people begin to think differently about what it is to be a high performing team.

It is a learning experience that sticks because:

- It is memorable and high energy
- It takes place just outside the comfort zone
- You learn from some of the best in their chosen field
- We don't dumb it down
- And it is different, challenging, bold and full of possibility.
